

MADERO'S FOLLOWERS STRONGLY REINFORCED BY TROOP DETACHMENTS

MEANWHILE AMERICANS IN MEXICO'S CAPITAL ARE IN SERIOUS DANGER FROM STREET BATTLES.

FIERCE FIGHTING TODAY

Ambassador Wilson Protests Against Orders to Cut Off Telegraphic Communication—Many Marooned Without Funds.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Mexico City, Feb. 13.—Firing was begun at eight o'clock this morning by a federal battery of artillery. A general attack on the rebel positions was expected to start immediately. It was difficult to see how the rebels could long resist the fire poured in by the federals, but they again showed the same grim marksmanship which characterized the previous fighting.

Heavy Fighting.
Heavy fighting was expected today between rebels and federals. At day light movements of troops were observed in both rebel and federal positions. The government forces were strongly reinforced in the night hours and a federal commander declared today he was in command of almost 7,000 men. The rebels, he said, numbered approximately only 4,000.

A number of heavy guns were brought up by the federals before dawn and posted in readiness for action. The federal commander declared that he would win the battle decisively in a short time and claimed an erroneous advantage in position as well as in strength of troops.

Federals Stronger.
Having an advantage in numbers—the federal army having been increased to approximately 7,000 men yesterday—it was predicted by the government leaders that by nightfall Felix Diaz either would be dead or a prisoner, and the rebellion a grim and gory thing of history.

Open Fight.
A battery of light artillery opened the street engagement today, pouring a galling fire into the rebel lines which, however, was vigorously returned by the heaviest guns in possession of the insurgents.

Machine Guns.
Machine guns from the top of tall buildings purred incessantly throughout the forenoon. Rifles popped furiously in a dozen streets and heavy cannon boomed with deafening roar. General Huerta and President Madero asserted that they expected to beat the rebel leaders into submission before the day's firing ceased.

Protest Orders.
United States Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson presented the issue of a general order to cut off all telephone communications about noon. He protested to President Madero that the rebels were not connected with the system and the order would cause unnecessary hardships.

Federal Losses.
Straggling federals who arrived at the American embassy of noon declared that a detachment of government troops was shot to pieces on the western edge of the city early today. This indicates that Diaz has a mobile force outside his lines in the central district.

Bursting Shells.
Two non-combatants were killed in front of the American club today by bursting shells.

Hard Fighting.
Between 9 and 10 o'clock shrapnel rang on the walls and shutters of the cable office, but the clerks and operators remained at their stations. A short time afterwards a solid shot from a field gun entered the Jardin Hotel.

Women in Danger.
In spite of the fact that many of the women and children in the foreign colonies were conveyed during the night to places of comparatively safety, a large number were still penned up today in regions not free from danger.

Thousands of Mexican families concentrated on the lower floor and in the basement of business buildings trusting to the series of floors above to protect them from the bursting shrapnel.

Sharp Engagement.
The infantry fighting lasted only a few minutes and was succeeded by a more intense cannonade from the rebels at the arsenal. The federal battery stationed in front of the British legation replied and drew much of the rebel fire.

Cannonading Stopped.
The cannonade soon lost some of its viciousness and it seemed the rebels were conserving their fire although they continued to throw shells toward the palace. One federal battery kept steadily in action at the Corono station on the Paseo Reforma and another on San Juan Letran street.

Tells of Scenes.
Laredo, Tex., Feb. 13.—A passenger from Mexico City on last night's train reported that at least 1,000 Americans were without funds to leave the capital even if the opportunity presented, because the banks had been closed since Saturday. A large number of Americans were at the railway station, he said, eagerly seeking to take northbound trains, but checks were refused as payment for tickets.

Are Marooned.
Many Americans, the passenger believes, practically were marooned at the station without food, shelter or money. He said railroad officials were doing everything they could to afford shelter to the women and children. Numerous passengers arriving from Mexico City assert that American officials in Mexico should provide special trains on which the Americans could leave.

Train Lost.
The whereabouts of the northbound passenger train from Mexico City, which left there Tuesday night, is still unreported, and there is apprehension for the safety of its passengers. An unsuccessful attack was made on the southbound passenger train which left here Tuesday.

Destroy Freight.
Passengers from Sutilito said today that one freight train was destroyed by fire and that the fate of another freight train was in doubt. It was rumored the latter was attacked by rebels. The southbound passenger train which left here Tuesday.

In France.
Paris, Feb. 13.—The civil war in Mexico occupies a larger place in public interest in France at the moment than does the Balkan war. The keenest attention is paid by the members of the diplomatic corps to the possibility of intervention by the United States, the prevailing view that this will probably occur before order has been restored.

The French foreign office declines to make any comment on the situation as it wishes to maintain its attitude of neutral observation. The foreign minister, however, receives frequent communications from the French charge in Mexico City. The Mexican legation in Paris also from time to time transmits to the foreign office encouraging messages received from the Madero government.

The interest taken in the situation by the ordinary Frenchman is chiefly a dramatic one and is stirred by the vivid narratives published in the newspapers of fighting in the streets of a modern city. Frenchmen hold considerable investments in Mexican security which have been little affected on the Paris bourse by the current events. There have been few transactions in these stocks and Mexicans five percent actually advanced four cents today after experiencing a slight depression on Monday.

Fitting Transports.
Newport News, Va., Feb. 13.—Work of fitting and provisioning the transports Meade, Sumner, McClellan and Kilpatrick to carry troops to Mexico is being pushed to completion.

SIX FIRMS SUFFER SERIOUS FIRE LOSS IN CHICAGO TODAY

Fire Starting in Brunswick-Balke-Collender Plant Does $200,000 Damage.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Fire of mysterious origin which raged five hours today caused a loss of $200,000. The firms affected being the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, makers of billiard tables and supplies, 324 to 330 South Wabash avenue, Chickering Brothers, piano dealers, who occupied the two upper floors of the building, Hotchchild and Company's piano department 330 So. Wabash avenue, G. Gennert, photographic supplies, 11 J. Peters Company, lighting supplies and the National Express company all of whom occupied the six story building at 322 South Wabash avenue.

The fire started on the first floor of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender building. Its rapid spread and the fact that a watchman and engineer employed in the building could not be located after the fire broke out, led the authorities to announce that a searching investigation into the cause of the fire would be made at once.

The lives of members of seven engine companies were endangered when a wall fell, but reports of loss of life were found to be untrue when the roll was called later.

A collection of trucks said to be one of the finest displays of ivory in this country and valued at $50,000, formed part of the loss of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company.

WEST VIRGINIA WILL INVESTIGATE CHARGE MEMBERS ARE BRIBED

Minister Makes Statement That He Is One of Men Senatorial Candidate Sought to Influence.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Charlestown, W. Va., Feb. 13.—Intense excitement was created in the house of delegates today when the Rev. Thomas J. Smith of West Union, speaking on the question of personal privilege, declared that Delegate S. U. G. Rhodes and another man had thrust $500 in his pocket in a room in a Charleston hotel after he had declared Rhodes and the other man had offered him $2,000 if he would vote for Col. W. S. Edwards, for United States senator.

Smith said he did not know how much money had been put into his pockets until he had left the room. Then he went to Delegate H. C. Williamson of Tyler county, had him count the money, enclose it in an envelope and return it to Rhodes.

Smith, in explaining his position, said he had refused to accept any money from Rhodes or the other man whom he did not recognize, but Rhodes had insisted it was not a bribe. Smith had been voting for Isaac T. Mann, for senator.

At the conclusion of his statement, Smith asked the house of delegates to investigate the alleged attempt to bribe him.

Col. William Seymour Edwards, candidate for United States senator, was arrested this morning on a warrant issued by Justice Marion Gilchrist, charged with bribing Delegate John M. Smith of Tyler county. The warrant was issued at the instance of Delegate S. U. G. Rhodes, one of the five men arrested Tuesday.

Edwards furnished bonds.

Judge Henry K. Black in criminal court today ordered a special grand jury convened immediately to investigate the charges that money has been used in the United States senatorial campaign now in progress in the West Virginia legislature.

TAFT DECIDING ON IMMIGRATION BILL TO SIGN OR VETO?

President Considers the Measure Which Means Much to Nation—Congress Busy Rushing Legislation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 13.—President Taft today gave a final hearing on the new immigration act against the literacy test of which there has been numerous protests from various sources.

The president today will decide whether to sign the bill or to return it to congress with a veto. Should he fail to sign or veto by tomorrow, the bill would become a law without his signature.

Prof. J. R. Commons, of the University of Wisconsin, today appeared before the senate interstate commerce committee in favor of the Adamson-La Follette bill for a valuation of railroads. He gave an exhaustive analysis of the decisions of the supreme court on the subject of railway valuation.

At a stormy executive session of the house naval affairs committee the economy advocates failed to force a reduction in the two battleships program adopted by the committee and returned to a further conference with little likelihood of an agreement.

BILL WILL RELIEVE STREET CAR TANGLE

Milwaukee Situation Cleared Up By Holmes Bill For Passage By Committee.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 13.—Relief in the Milwaukee street car situation is now in sight. Late last night the assembly committee on transportation reported for passage the Holmes bill which gives the railroad commission power to order the joint use of tracks, when public convenience and necessity requires. While this measure was designated to apply principally to Milwaukee it will affect a number of cities where interurban lines are seeking admission to a city that already has a local street car system. In that case the interurban cars may be routed over the city lines, if public convenience and necessity requires.

There was little opposition to the bill when considered jointly by the senate and assembly committees yesterday afternoon. By reporting the measure out at once it will probably be passed and up to the governor for signature within a week.

Several measures to repeat the present law which allows the railroad company permission to collect ten cents extra fare, where the passenger does not purchase a ticket on the train were also considered by the committee. Assemblyman David Jennings of Milwaukee denounced the measure as unfair to the traveling public and Senator Theodore Dewey of Madison claimed as the law is at present enforced conductors are arbitrary. Several conductors appeared before the committee to ask for the retention of the law. They declared that from 90 to 95 percent of the passengers now bought tickets and that previously about one half of the public paid cash fares on the trains. Conductor Hatch of the La Crosse division of the Milwaukee road claimed that it lessened the hours of a conductor from one to two hours a day and that much better attention was given to the traveling public.

There was some objection to the Nye bill which provides that any person may have the charges investigated that are made on any freight or express package. Senator A. B. Martin suggested that it was a foolish and useless work upon the railroad. He thought the burden would be so great that it would cost much more than the refunds that would be ordered. Commissioner Halford Erickson of the railroad commission told the joint committee that he believed that the experiment would pay for itself. He thought it should be given a trial.

AMBASSADOR WILSON MAKES REPORT TO TAFT

RAILROADS PROTEST AT THE HANSON BILL

Enter Objection to Measure Which Would Exempt Car Slips From State And Allow Local Taxation.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 13.—Railroad companies entered strong objections against the Hanson bill at a committee hearing yesterday because it would exempt car slips from taxation by the state and permit them to be taxed locally. Attorney J. A. Murphy of Superior denounced it as a move that would take the life of the ad valorem law. He claims that the exemptions that have already been made in order to help out the cities of Ashland and Superior should never have been made.

Murphy claimed that every legislature is asked to cut into the legislature's pocket. He pointed out that at first the law was steadily refused to break into the law and that now that the break had been made every community was coming in asking for still further exemptions until soon there would be a condition against which the law itself was passed years ago to remedy. Attorney Vilas of Chicago claimed that by permitting the localities to tax a part of the railroad properties locally violated the rule of uniformity in the constitution and he agreed with Attorney Murphy that a test of the matter in the courts would doubtless result in a decision indicating that all of the laws making exemptions of the property so that they might be taxed locally would be unconstitutional.

Attorney William Hayes of Milwaukee said he had campaigned Wisconsin to have the ad valorem law enacted and that he never thought such onslaughts would be then made against the ad valorem principle by the legislature itself. He declared that it was an insult to the cities of the state that had large railroad properties within their borders, and that no one docks or car ferry slips on which to ask an exemption, to ask for the exemptions they now do. Attorney Murphy hinted that the law passed two years ago exempting one docks would be tested in the courts this year.

RELATES HAPPENINGS IN MEXICAN CITY AND PRECAUTIONS TAKEN TO PROTECT AMERICANS.

ARMY BEING MOBILIZED

War Preparations Still Continue Although No Step Toward Sending Troops Across Border is Taken.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 13.—Ambassador Wilson's over night dispatches were laid before President Taft today immediately upon his return from Philadelphia. They contained principally an account of the most disquieting feature of the fighting in Mexico City—the killing of two American women yesterday.

Administration officials look with much apprehension upon the effect of the killing of two Americans and one of the first results of the incident was last night's order to Ambassador Wilson to warn all Americans out of danger zone.

The president is keeping in constant touch with the situation, from three points of view—from the diplomatic side, which involves actions of ambassador Wilson in making representations to President Madero and General Diaz in the interest of the foreign life and property in Mexico; from the naval view point as it concerns the extent of the activities of several thousand marines and blue jackets who will appear in the Mexican ports within the course of the next 48 hours; and from the military standpoint which involves a determination as to when if at all he shall have the word for the entrainment of the first brigade of the first division of the re-organized army of regular troops which now lies under arms with knapsacks and emergency rations ready for an immediate departure for the south.

Ambassador Wilson's course so far has the unqualified approval of the administration though some of the army men question his attempts to stop hostilities.

It has been suggested to the president that it might be prudent to dispatch the first brigade to Vera Cruz at once even if the troops are to be kept aboard ship indefinitely as were the 1,000 marines on the Panther who lay in San Domingo harbor for more than a month last summer. But because there is more fear that such a gathering of a foreign military force in their ports even though not landed might inflame the Mexican public to acts of violence against Americans throughout the country, the authorities are hesitating to take such an action.

A significant proceeding of the day was the early assembly of the joint army and navy board in Admiral Dewey's office. The call was issued by direction of Admiral Dewey himself. It brought together at an opportune time for consideration of joint use of the army and navy the highest officers of both services and the ablest strategists.

Besides Admiral Dewey and Major General Leonard Wood, the army and navy were represented by Major General Witherspoon, assistant chief of staff, Brigadier General Weavers chief of the coast artillery, and Brigadier General Crozier, Rear Admiral, later, and Vice Admiral, and Captain Potter. By executive order this board is charged with the preparation of plans for the co-operation of the army and navy when it becomes necessary to conduct joint operations either offensive or defensive.

Anti-American feeling at Acapulco, Mexico culminated in an assault upon two officers of the cruiser Denver before she departed yesterday from Acapulco Honduras. The victims of the assault were Surgeon Camerer and Ensign Guthrie who were passing through the streets. Neither was injured.

To protect Americans endangered in the firing in Mexico City, Ambassador Wilson was today ordered to draw on the state department for $10,000. This could be used for relief of the destitute or for getting Americans out of Mexico.

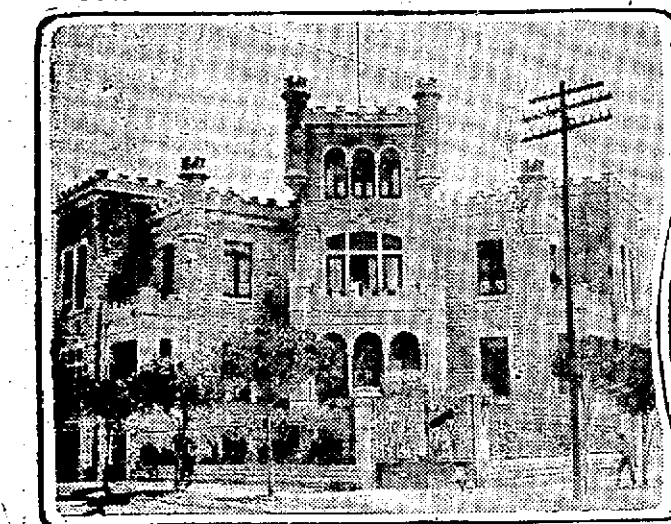

Neither the Red Cross nor the White Cross society is being respected by the federal forces. The president of the former organization has been killed. Several members of the White Cross said to have been caught in the act of transporting ammunition were executed by federal troops.

The White Cross Society reports that it is caring for 1200 wounded. Ambassador Wilson's dispatches today report that many houses occupied by Americans have been seized by federal troops and the occupants driven into the streets, homeless and exposed to the terrific fire of both rebels and federals, the dismayed refugees made their way at the risk of their lives to the American embassy, which is now open to all refugees.

All dispatches to the American embassy from the state department urge the ambassador to exert every influence to keep non-combatants from the streets. He reports the wounding of several American men and says he has given refuge to between 500 and 600 Americans.

Officials here are alarmed. Acapulco has been a storm center of revolutionists for several weeks and the Denver was protecting Americans there when the assassination of President Arana of Salvador and the gathering of war clouds over all central America made it necessary to send the cruiser to Acapulco. Officials at the state department feel the greatest concern for the safety of Americans in Acapulco pending the arrival of the cruiser South Dakota due there Sunday.

Americans have sought refuge in the United States embassy, and the representatives of other nations have counseled their countrymen to keep off the streets and have organized volunteer guards for the protection of the embassies.

DIRECTORS ELECTED BY COMMERCIAL CLUB

FIVE NEW MEMBERS NAMED AT ANNUAL BANQUET HELD LAST NIGHT.

HOMECOMING ASSURED

Proposals Approved by Unanimous Vote—Reports of Officers Record Accomplishments.

Encouraging reports of accomplishment and progress made during the past year, together with ambitious plans for promoting the commercial and civic welfare of Janesville during the present and future years were made and outlined at the annual banquet and meeting of the Commercial Club held at the Myers Hotel last night. Optimism and enthusiasm tinged the report of each officer, the impromptu talks, and the conversation over the cigars and coffee which marked the completion of an excellent five course dinner served to more than seventy members of the club and other Janesville business men. With them there were served forty-one Rockford "Boosters" who came to this city in the special interurban car "Idle Moments" to welcome them to the "Rockford" show to be held next week beginning Monday, and to a banquet which will be served in their honor that evening. H. L. McNamara, the toastmaster of the evening, introduced to the members of the Janesville Club Mr. Arthur Brown, the secretary of the Rockford Commercial Club, Mr. E. L. Thayer and Mr. A. J. Holtz, who in brief remarks made a formal extension of the invitation.

Reports by President of the club, A. P. Lovejoy, Secretary E. Lane, and Treasurer T. O. Howe, the report of the auditing committee presented by Frank A. Jackman, and a paper on the credit rating bureau by Andrew Gibbons, composed the major part of the program. City Attorney W. H. Dougherty gave a brief but inspiring address on "The Needs of the Commercial Club."

Printed ballots containing the nominees for directors were distributed early in the evening following the roll call but announcement of result was not made until late. A second ballot was taken to decide a tie between Michael Hayes and H. M. Dedrick, the latter being elected by a majority of one. The other directors elected were Joseph Connors, Edward Amos, H. H. Bliss, George S. Parker, C. A. Buchholz, N. L. Carle, H. M. Dedrick, J. S. Field, A. J. Gibbons, T. O. Howe, F. H. Jackman, A. P. Lovejoy, Louis Levy, H. L. McNamara, Amos Reihner, George G. Sutherland and J. L. Wilcox, the first five named being given members of the board.

Ex-Mayor John C. Nichols and C. S. Putnam, promised the support and cooperation of the Janesville Driving Park Association in providing a program of races for the home-coming. Mr. Putnam expressed the opinion that from fifty to sixty horses would be here training at that time for the big race meet to be held from August 12 to 14. He did not think it advisable to hold races on the Fourth of July. At the suggestion of W. H. Dougherty the Club directed H. L. McNamara to appoint a committee of seven to take charge of the home-coming celebration plans.

President Lovejoy's Report.
President A. P. Lovejoy was not able to be present at the meeting last evening and his report for the year was read by Secretary F. E. Lane. President Lovejoy requested that he not be asked to serve in his present capacity another term as he had already served as president of the Club for two successive years. He urged the members of the Club to a more whole-hearted and generous support of its undertakings and closer co-operation with Secretary Lane. The present pledges, he said, met the fixed expenses of the Club with a ridiculously small margin, and more funds were needed to entertain the promoters of factories and other industries, and for advertising purposes. More extended use should be made of the Club's credit rating bureau.

A new field of activity for the Commercial Club suggested by President Lovejoy to increase the productivity of Rock county farms through the formation of an association that would employ and pay the expenses of an expert agriculturalist who would be at all times ready to advise the farmers as to the tillage of the soil and other aspects of their business. This plan had been productive of excellent results in several counties and was rapidly being introduced. A considerable portion of the President's paper was devoted to a description of the plan evolved by the Boston Chamber of Commerce for the encouraging and development of small industries by extensions of loans and credits. This had more than justified the hopes of its promoters and he hoped that the Janesville Club would further investigate it and consider some means of adapting the plan to its needs. He took occasion to deny the current rumors that the Commercial Club had discouraged the establishment of a linen factory in this city and said that every means possible had been taken to bring it here. Better street lighting, garbage disposal, and the demolition of unsightly buildings were among his recommendations.

Secretary Lane's Review.
Secretary F. E. Lane reviewed in brief compass the accomplishments of the Club during the year. He noted the provision of additional capital for the John C. Nichols Harness Company so that it could enlarge its facilities sufficiently to care for the business of the Echlin harness factory destroyed by fire a year ago. He believed it was necessary to encourage and strengthen the existing industries of the city as to bring about the establishment of new ones, and assuring more definite results. The purchase of the rink building so as to enable the city to have its use for exhibitions of different kinds had proved a good investment. The Bargain Week held last fall brought in more than $5,000 to the Janesville stores in sales to out-of-town customers. The mid-winter fair had aroused great interest among the farmers of Rock county and stimulated the cultivation of pure bred grains. The automobile show, the exhibit of safety devices by co-operation with the State Industrial Commission came in for complimentary mention, as did also the State Eagles' Convention. This year the Club would have a part in the entertainment of the United Commercial Travelers and the Retail Mail Carriers' Convention.

The freight rate bureau continues to be one of the most valuable services given to the members of the club. Eighteen hundred freight rates had been quoted and one hundred claims entered for excessive charges most of them with the Interstate Commerce Commission. The sum of $1038.49 had been paid to members of the Club on claims. Lower freight rates into Janesville had been obtained on commodities from several different points.

A system of tracing freight shipments by postal cards had been inaugurated which made it possible to promptly discover any errors in charges. The system of regular package cards to different points succeeded in reducing materially the time of freight in transit, and by arrangements with the railways as to routing freight shipments had been spared delay. The strike of the freight handlers in Chicago. Secretary Lane gave a summary of the subscriptions to the Club funds and expenses. The subscriptions totaled $3195, and fixed expenses were approximately $3000, leaving hardly enough money to pay for postage stamps.

Andrew Gibbons' talk on the credit rating system of the club was thorough and illuminating. He showed the system to be a model of form and able to reduce the losses through unwarranted extensions of credit to a minimum. It is a card system and therefore elastic and capable of immediate amendment. Its success is dependent upon the close co-operation of each member of the association. Records of 6000 persons were now on file and more were being added. It afforded protection to the honest purchaser as well as to the retailer and inconvenienced no one but the cheat, beat, encouraged thrift and promptness and discouraged extravagance.

The address of City Attorney Dougherty was a plan for more co-operation with the Secretary of the Club greater interest in its work, and more public spirit. Attention should not be too closely fixed he said, upon the benefits of the Club to individual members, but more emphasis should be placed upon the welfare of the city as a whole.

On the motion of H. H. Bliss the Club expressed its desire to have a banquet every three months.

Arrangements have already been made for members of the Janesville Commercial Club to go to Rockford next Monday where they will be the guests of the Rockford Commercial Club. A special car will leave this city at three o'clock in the afternoon and those who wish to accept the hospitality offered should notify either Secretary Lane or Carl H. Buchholz as soon as possible.

COAL WAGON DEMOLISHED WHEN STRUCK BY CARS

Vehicle Owned by Brittingham & Hixon Company Wrecked Yesterday Morning at Sheds. As the result of the unannounced approach of a switch train a coal wagon belonging to the Brittingham & Hixon Lumber Company was completely demolished yesterday morning. The wagon had been backed up to a shed near the Five Points and stood directly across the switch track, while the driver, Eugene Barry, was at work loading it. He did not hear the train backing down the siding until it was too late and the wagon was struck squarely by a box car. The horse freed itself but was prevented from running away by the prompt arrival of another workman. It suffered no injury as the result of the accident.

CASCARETS CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

The millions of Cascaret users never have Headache, Constipation, Biliousness or Sick Stomach.

It is more necessary that you keep your Bowels, Liver and Stomach clean, pure and fresh than it is to keep the sewers and drainage of a large city free from obstruction. Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salt, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver; and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

No odds how badly and upset you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

POLITICAL CRISIS NEAR IN ALBERTA

Predicted That General Election Will Follow Soon After Adjournment of Legislature.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 13.—With the usual ceremonies the session of the Provincial Legislature was opened this afternoon. The session bids fair to be one of the most important in the history of Alberta. Only a few weeks ago the forecast was for a short and comparatively uninteresting session, but since then a momentous change has been wrought in the political situation by the Privy Council's decision in the suit of the Royal Bank against the Province of Alberta.

When Premier Sifton came into power he obtained the passing of an act by the Provincial Legislature, declaring that the proceeds of the bonds of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway belonged to the general fund of the Province. The Great Waterways Railway and the Royal Bank, which held the money, immediately claimed that the measure was ultra vires, and payment was denied. The Alberta Government then sued to recover. The judgment, just rendered by the Privy Council in favor of the Royal Bank means an enormous monetary loss to the Province and a corresponding increase in the public debt. The decision has dealt a hard blow to the Sifton Government, which came into power as a result of a split which the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway had caused in the previous government. It is freely predicted that a general election is likely to follow soon after the adjournment of the present session of the Legislature.

Sport Snap Shots

by Dad McCarty

According to a report coming in from Philadelphia, Luther McCarty made the statement in that town the other day that he would meet any of his colored brethren, including Jack Johnson, in the ring should his manager, and the public so desire. "I will meet Jack Johnson," late is quoted as saying, "if my manager, Billy McCarty, desires me to. I mean just what I say. I am working under the instructions of McCarty, and although I am opposed to meeting negroes, I will jump into the ring if he says the word."

Billy probably won't say the word. He has no use for the colored pugilist, and the public generally likes to think of Jack Johnson as down and out.

Roger Bresnahan, former Carl who'll be with the Chicago Cubs this year, insists that he isn't half so lazy as some have given him credit for being. He declares that he wants to catch in 100 games for the Windy City team in 1913.

Perhaps Rogers knows that there is no chance of his expressed wish being carried out. Jimmy Archer, conceded to be one of the very best catchers in the business, is on the Cub catching staff. He will in all likelihood figure in a majority of games. It was nice of Bresnahan to say, however, that he'd like to, back-stop in 100 games.

Whether or not he proves to be a classy baseball player, Jim Thorpe is bound to prove a money maker for the New York Giants. Here's a guess that any day the Giants are feeling hard up they can just advertise that the big brave will play and they'll clean up his salary in a single game. It is hardly likely that Thorpe would long continue a big attraction in a smaller city, unless he proved a good player, but in New York it won't make much difference.

Manager Birmingham of the Cleveland Naps won't have to depend entirely upon his own counsel on the spring training trip to Pensacola, Fla., as he will have his three veteran players, Napoleon Lajoie, Terry Turner and Jack Graney, at his beck and call. Jimmy, his three vets and his battery squad will start for the training camp on February 22.

Young Togo, the Japanese boxer, who once fought Bartling Nelson, has forsaken his ring to work in a P. Smith, Ark. restaurant.

Manager Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics, says Babe Waddell is the greatest season baseball pitcher he has ever seen, and Chief Bender still on duty with the Athletics, the greatest short stories he has ever seen in action. "Waddell was a pitcher every inch," says Connie. "You did not need much of a team behind him. He could not think like Bender, but for common, pure pitching I would pick Waddell, while for masterful pitching Bender is my choice."

ADMIRAL MURDOCK ON RETIRED LIST

Active Career Covers a Period of Forty-five Years—Has Held Many Important Commands.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 13.—Rear Admiral Joseph B. Murdock, a conspicuous figure in the navy, was placed on the retired list today on account of age. His active career covers a period of nearly forty-five years, during which time he has held a wide variety of important commands, both at sea and on shore.

Admiral Murdock is a native of Hartford, Conn., and a graduate of the United States Naval Academy in the class of 1870. The first few years of his service in the navy were spent on the North and South Atlantic stations. From 1875 to 1880 he was on coast survey duty and during the three years that followed he was instructor in physics at the Annapolis academy. After serving periods of several years each on the Asiatic and European stations and at the New York navy-yard and the Naval War College, he was made executive officer of the warship Panther at the beginning of the war with Spain.

He commanded the Rhode Island on the famous around-the-world cruise of the American battleship fleet in 1908. At the conclusion of the cruise he was promoted to the rank of rear admiral and assigned to the command of the New York Navy Yard. In 1910 he became commander of the second division of the Atlantic Fleet. A year later he was made commander-in-chief of the Asiatic Fleet, of which command he was relieved a short time ago in anticipation of his retirement from active service.

Theater

"THE GIRL AT THE GATE"

The greatest musical comedy production of the season, or for that matter, of many seasons, "The Girl at the Gate," will be the attraction at the Myers Theatre, Thursday, Feb. 20. It was only through the sudden decision of the directors of the La Salle Opera House to commence the reconstruction of that noted Chicago playhouse that the theatregoers in other cities will have the privilege of witnessing "The Girl at the Gate" this year in their own vicinities for it was the original intention of the management of the La Salle to continue the run in Chicago until the end of the season.

But the matter of the reconstruction of the La Salle Opera House had been determined on long ago, and the only obstacle in the way of its being done before was the fact that the La Salle shows, since Mr. Harry Askin has been in control, have shown no signs of letting-up in popularity until all the other theatres have succumbed to summer indifference on the part of the public, and then it was too late to commence the re-building and be ready for an early September production. Mr. Askin, however, once having given his word to the public that the prepared plans for the new theatre should become concrete before another season, the fact that "The Girl at the Gate" is playing to capacity, and that its departure at this time will mean the loss of months of enormous business right in its own home, has no influence on his decision to keep with Chicago theatregoers. And so it comes to pass that "the road" will have the privilege of having this enormous hit, with its wonderful cast, its dazzling chorus, and the entire production as originally staged at the La Salle, long before it would have started on tour under ordinary conditions.

Mr. Will M. Hough, long associated with La Salle successes, and Mr. Fredrick Donahy, part-author of Louisiana Lou, are responsible for the book and lyrics of "The Girl at the Gate" and Ben M. Jerome, as usual, composed the score.

Most of us are star-at-homes from necessity rather than desire; the restless "wanderlust" prevades the whole nation; the cravings of a progressive spirit and the restless ness of nervous vigor make us a nation of travelers. Since so few of us can gratify this inclination by actual traveling, much of the great popularity of Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival may be ascribed to this longing to travel because Mr. Howe's reproductions really are a most excellent substitute. It is a splendid equivalent of actual travel and therefore it is quite natural that the announcement of his return engagement at the Myers theatre Wednesday and Thursday on March 26-27 matinee and evening, should arouse among the longing to see the activities, industries, events, history, arts, architecture, customs and sports of lands remote from ours. Other factors that greatly enhance the value of Mr. Howe's exhibition are the breadth and detail of the subjects and the artistic skill manifested not only in photographing them but also in their arrangement. They offer a live stimulus for thought, by sheer force of their grandeur, realism and fascination. There is an indefinable charm in them which is to be found in no other exhibition and they make spectators feel that they are really present—they are on the ground partaking of the pleasure of actual travel and enjoying the innumerable sources of human interest that travel offers.

WORLD'S FIGURE SKATING CHAMPIONSHIP MENACED

United States and Canada Not Represented at Vienna Held at Vienna.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, Feb. 13.—In view of the extraordinary popularity that the sport of ice skating is enjoyed at the present time, considerable surprise and some disappointment is expressed by lovers of the sport over the fact that the United States and Canada have not seen fit to send their star performers to compete in the world's figure skating championships this year. The championships are scheduled to begin to-day in Vienna, under the auspices of the Eis club of Austria, which this year is celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary. Since 1899, at St. Petersburg, there has been no American representative, so far as fancy skating is concerned, in Europe.

THE MORAL INFLUENCE.

The moral influence of a good, stable form of city government has much to do with the success of the community in a business world. Industries always seek cities where the surroundings are moral and conducive to the betterment of the working element. It is not the wide open town that goes ahead in a business and out number in the past, no limit can be placed upon the number that will be called for by municipal mal-administration in the future, unless the individual citizen shall be thoroughly aroused to a sense of his responsibility to the community in which he lives. One of the very first things necessary to municipal reform is the eradication from the thought of the average individual citizen of the idea that there can be one set of standards of morals in public affairs and another set or standard in private life.

 In the thought of many people, otherwise subject to rational and righteous leanings, there seems to be a tendency toward the toleration of conditions in public affairs that would be wholly abhorrent to them if discovered in their business or family surroundings. Thus, men will frequently vote to put or to hold persons in office to whom they would not give personal confidence or employment. Thus, too, they submit to the employment by their community of persons whom they would not have in positions of trust around their banks, their stores,
 their shops, their factories, their offices or their homes.

"Is it to be wondered at, in these circumstances, that certain phases of municipal government in the United States continue to misrepresent the ideals of the nation? Is it to be wondered at, in these circumstances, that one hears of official scandal, of 'graft,' of crime propagated rather than extirpated in some of the larger American cities?

"Practically all the municipal reform proposals heard of have their base and pillar and purpose in laws and ordinances. Yet in the majority of cases communities are not so much afflicted with open violations of law
 as they are with insidious and secret avoidance of it. Law seems to many to be the panacea for all communal ills. How fatuous is this belief all thinking people know. The cities in which municipal evils are the most numerous and the most insidious are not lawless. To outward appearance they are orderly.

"Where does the root of the trouble lie? In the false belief of the average citizen that it is impossible to correct abuses, that you cannot expect public affairs to be carried on with regard for the moralities and the de-cencies, that you must put up with insidious wrong because it is unavoidable, inevitable. The truth is that the municipal scandals so common to this country could hardly continue for another day if the individual citizen would awaken to a proper sense of his duty, and insist that there shall be henceforth but one standard of morality for all. If he will properly exert himself to this end, conditions that would be abhorrent in the home or in private business will, we think, suddenly cease to exist in public affairs."

ONE MILE ZONE.

First we learn that the liquor elements of the state the Brewers' and the Retail Liquor Dealers' association, are at loggerheads over the bill before the state legislature regulating saloons, and now we learn that the two interests are united, opposing the plan for extending the saloon license zone in Madison, to be changed from a half to one mile from the university. This latter move would practically wipe out every saloon in the down town section of the city, as according to the old geographical survey it was just one mile from the center of the old capital building to Washburn observatory and the proposed bill places the limit at the university grounds, which is a half mile at least this side of the observatory hill. At any rate it is an interesting battle that is to be fought and the outcome of the whole thing will probably be a compromise limiting the number of saloons in any city to one to one, say four hundred cities.
 This, if passed, would affect Janesville, hence the interest displayed in the fight at Madison.

NO PEACE YET.

There are no real signs of peace at the state capital yet. The Kern-Mc-Govern imbroglio has really affected the whole of the state legislature and the result will be far-reaching in its results. Many former strong supporters of the governor are now aligned against him and the struggle has really just begun. Should McGovern win he will be able to construct his own machine to suit himself, and there will be many vacant seats at his council table to be filled, by desertion from his cause at present. Should he lose, then it will be a bitter fight to the end with the La Follette machine in complete control and the probability that the governor will go over board and soul to the Roosevelt progressives with all the machinery of the state he can manage to take with him. It will be like the south seizing the arsenal of the government for the purpose of waging war on their former brothers of the north in the days of '61.

INTERVENTION OR NOT?

Just what the attitude of the United States will be as regards the present crisis in Mexico remains to be seen.
 President Taft has gone as far as he evidently intends to, by ordering fifteen thousand men trained in the art of warfare, to be ready for invasion of the neighboring republic if congress orders such a move. With the advent of a new regime, a new political party, with new policies, but a few weeks off, it is doubtful if he will make any further move, but leave the problem for his successor to solve.
 To really end the present disturbed condition of Mexico, it has been estimated that two hundred thousand men would need be employed for the next two years. Mexico has long had an efficient standing army, fairly well officered and equipped, and should the intervention come they would find a united people and a war follow that would be far more important than has been the struggle in the Philippines, and much more sanguinary. Perhaps it is just as well for President Taft and congress to wait until Mr. Wilson is in charge of affairs before taking any definite action. Meanwhile, President Taft has done all that he can do by preparing for any eventuality that may come and will leave the ducks clear for any action his successor may decide upon.

STILL BELLIGERENT.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is still belligerent. He is ready to wage war on both republican or democratic party, he says nothing about the prohibition, for the sake of personal gain.
 He takes occasion on Lincoln's birthday to make public his declaration of war and re-assert he is the great Moses to lead the people of the United States into the promised land of prosperity. There is one thing about Roosevelt, he is sure of reading praises of himself and doctrines and papers print his speeches, and he can look them over the next morning.

PREDATORY WEALTH.

The famous Pule "money trust" investigating committee is finishing up its long investigation and doubtless will be ready to make its report within a short time. That it will credit the tale that the country in the grasp of a gigantic money trust, with J. P.
 Morgan & Co. as the chief malefactors of great wealth, is certain. The report might well be designated as "Po-leon's Plume" for all the good it will ever do in a practical way, but still it has given congress something to talk about.

The Commercial club reports given at the annual meeting last night show that many things have been accomplished for the betterment of Janesville by that organization during the past year. Let everyone turn to and boost the city.

NEW BRUNSWICK LEGISLATURE SESSION OPENED TODAY

Frederickton, N. B., Feb. 13.—The session of the Legislative Assembly of New Brunswick was opened this afternoon by the Lieutenant-Governor, attended by his military staff, and with the usual ceremonies. A session of less than five weeks' duration is planned. Regarding the legislation of the session, the enactment of measures providing for some important public improvements and industrial developments is forecasted.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

WORSE AND MORE OF IT
 "A row of chesses on the bedroom wall,"

"It wasn't what I thought to see at all,"

"You are a musician," said the great detective to his perturbed visitor.

"How did you know?" she asked in wonder.

"By your general tone," he replied in English. "And now, madam, if you are a good musician, compose yourself."

With considerable difficulty she did so, and then started to begin:
 "I am Mrs. M., the violinist. I am also married. For three weeks Mrs.
 T., one of the most beautiful and accomplished women in the city, has been hanging around my back door,

 I have a front door and a side door,
 but she persists in hanging around the back one. It is that which makes me think she is after my husband.
 It isn't the idea that she might get him that worries me so much as the principle of the thing!"

"I have heard of you, Mrs. M., said the great detective. "Your dispersed are famous all over, from one end to the middle."

"And you think she wants my husband?" she asked languidly.

"I fear it is worse than that. I fear she wants your cook!"

With an exclamation of horror the lady musician raced home to beat time and Mrs. T.

Rheumatism
 A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It
 In the spring of 1881 I was attacked by sciatic and inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried every remedy known, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary.
 Finally I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned.
 I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.
 I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent, simply mail your name and address to me, and I will send you a free trial. If, after you have used it and find it does not cure you, I will send you the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay.

Young People Can Easily Acquire Habit of Thoroughness and Concentration.

Greater thoroughness and concentration on the work in hand is a crying need on the part of many of the young people, according to Mr. Buell. When the study habit is once acquired it becomes second nature. Mr. Buell warned the students against all careless and loose habits.

SERIOUS DAMAGE BY FIRE LAST EVENING

Twelve Hundred Dollar Loss Sustained by T. R. Costigan and John Schoof.

Fire which originated in the storage room of the Schoof marker, located in the basement of the Williams block, under the store occupied by T. R. Costigan, did twelve hundred dollars' worth of damage to the market products and the saddlery concern of Costigan. That the blaze was confined to the one building was due to the prompt work of the fire department who, drenched the blaze out by use of large quantities of water poured into the basement from three directions. The fire was discovered by Mr. Costigan and an alarm immediately sent to the West Side engine house. Chief Klein ordered a second alarm when he discovered the inflammable material stored in the building—lard, pork, wrapping paper and vats of oil. The first alarm was turned in shortly after five o'clock and the blaze was extinguished before six by prompt work. The damage to the Costigan stock was by smoke and water.

CALORIC FIRELESS STOVES LOST IN OCEAN DISASTER

Janesville Factory Receives Duplicate Order From Sydney, Australia Firm In Consequence.

The Caloric company received a cablegram today from H. S. Land, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, announcing that the consignment of fireless cookers shipped them, on the steamship "Ventura" on January 18, had met with disaster, and that a duplicate order should be shipped at once via the port of Vancouver. There were about one hundred stoves in the shipment, worth about $1,500. As the Caloric company had been paid for the stoves in advance and the buyer's shipment was insured, neither party to the transaction will suffer loss. The nature of the disaster that befell the "Ventura" is not yet known.

U. S. SIGNAL CORPS

Succeeds Brigadier General James Allen Who Retired Because of Age—Gave China Service.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 13.—After having served at the head of the United States Army Signal Corps for seven years, Brigadier General James Allen relinquished his duties at noon today to his successor in office, Colonel George P. Scriven, who has been acting as chief assistant for some time past. The change is due to the fact that General Allen became 64 years of age today, and, therefore, under the law was relegated to the retired list.

Colonel Scriven, who succeeds General Allen as Chief Signal Officer, was born in Pennsylvania in 1854. Upon his graduation from the West Point Military Academy in 1878 he was assigned as a Second Lieutenant to the Eighth Infantry. A year later he was transferred to the Third Artillery. In 1880 he was appointed a First Lieutenant in the Signal Corps. A year ago he attained the rank of Colonel in the Signal Corps and was the only officer of that rank in the organization. During the Boxer uprising in China, in 1900, Colonel Scriven served as Chief Signal Officer of the relief expedition, and was recommended for the brevet of Lieutenant Colonel for gallant conduct at Yangtsun and also at Peking.

visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fryer last Tuesday evening, presenting Mrs. Fryer with a beautiful silver spoon. A delicious picnic supper was served from the baskets provided by the guests, the evening being spent in cards and social chat.

A unique play was given in the high school assembly room yesterday morning for opening exercises as a complete surprise to the high school body. The title was "The World's Work" and was written by the three young ladies who enacted it to serve as senior essay work. The scene opened with Mrs. Abe Lincoln (Miss Sue Hadley) seated in her room indulging in a soliloquy. Her life and citizenship were related. Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, impersonated by Miss Nellie Gardner, told of her connection with and writing of Uncle Tom's Cabin. Miss Clara Barton was impersonated by Miss Fern Cleveland. Miss Edith Dinny enacted the part of Miss Jane Addams. Miss L. B. Ludington was director. Original work of this kind and especially when as well done as this, cannot be too highly commended.

Beryl Ballard of Janesville, spent yesterday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Ballard.

Francis Walsh of Racine was a business caller Tuesday.

Mrs. Erwin Gabriel spent yesterday with Janesville friends.

ABOUT DOLLS.

A LITTLE friend of mine had three dolls at Christmas. Two were of the old-fashioned type. They had flaxen hair, absolutely regular features and staring blue eyes. They wore fuzzy, unreal clothes. They were the kind of creation that has given the adjective "doll-face" to a regular beauty, meaningless face.

The other doll was the new type, a dear little creature with a face as near like that of a human child as the artist could make it. She was dressed in a little gingham dress such as a child would naturally wear, and she wasn't a bit pretty, but she was just as cute and human as you can imagine. And though my little friend admired her two doll-faced dolls, it was easy to see that she loved the homely, human doll the best.

Undoubtedly you must have seen this new type of doll which is so tremendously popular this year. And didn't it make you wish you were the doll age again so that you might have one? That's the way it affected me.

And now perhaps you'd like to know why I'm writing at such length about a doll. I'll tell you. Because it seems to me that the popularity of this new type of doll is a manifestation of one of the most interesting tendencies of the present age—the tendency toward humanness.

Who is the most popular actress on the American stage today? Ask that question of five people and at least three of them would speak a single name—Maude Adams. Why is she so universally popular? Beautiful, such a wonderful emotional actress? No, she isn't beautiful at all, at least not in the old acceptance of that word. Nor is she a wonderful emotional actress, at least not in the way the older favorites were. Maude Adams' popularity is founded on her humanness. Her plays and her ways are simple, natural, human. She does what you or I would do under similar circumstances. And box office receipts show that most of us really enjoy seeing an actress acting like a human being instead of like an actress.

In the world of books the simple human tale is more common and more popular today than the wild tale of romance and adventure that was the favorite generation ago. Could anything be more simple and unexciting than one of Mary Stewart Cutting's stories of middle class people in everyday situations? And yet they are very popular. Why? Because they are human and that's what people want nowadays.

Look about you and you will see other ways in which this tendency is manifested. We have less and less use for the artificial, the strained and unnatural, and more and more appreciation of the simple, the real, the human. Is it to be a lasting condition or just a swing of the pendulum? I wonder.

cups cold baked meat or fish, three tablespoons butter, six tablespoons flour, one cup hot milk or cream, one-half teaspoon onion juice, one tablespoon lemon juice, one quart cup meat stock, one teaspoon salt, few grains pepper and nutmeg, one teaspoon minced parsley, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire.

Boil fish or meat, removing bones and skin, and flake fine. Make a sauce by melting butter, adding flour and gradually the hot milk, when boiling, add fish or meat stock and balance of ingredients. Add to meat, cool and shape into cutlets.

Roll in fine crumbs battered with one-quarter cup melted butter to 1½ cups crumbs. Place in oiled dripping pan and bake until brown.

Serve with creamed peas, tomato or egg sauce around a mound of mashed potatoes.

If made from fish will make an excellent Lenten dish and is delicious.

The KITCHEN CABINET

A BAR of soap may become a murderous weapon. A poor cooking stove has sometimes been the place for on which the wife has been roasted.

PERTINENT HINTS.

Keep on hand a package of bay leaves. Five cents' worth will be sufficient for the family for a life time, and what is left will serve the grandchildren, as age does not destroy their virtue. Bay leaves, like garlic, should be used with discretion. Usually a half a leaf is sufficient to flavor most dishes.

When clothes show signs of gloss, spread the garment on an ironing board and carefully rub the glossy surface with a fine piece of sandpaper or emery paper. Do not use too much energy, or a hole will result.

If windows stick and try the patience, try pouring a little melted lard between the frame and the casing, putting a little on the rope.

A fine way to clean white gloves and white ostrich plumes is to moisten a little white flour with gasoline and rub the article to be cleaned well with the mixture. If it is gloves to be cleaned, put them on the hands and rub with the flour as if it were soap and water. The result will be most satisfactory.

A fresh blood stain may be quickly removed if saturated with starch, which absorbs it, and it can then be brushed without leaving a stain on the fabric.

Always keep a few wooden skewers to use, wrapped with the cleaning cloth, for corners of window panes and other places too small for the finger to reach.

Shine up the old rubbers and overshoes by rubbing with ammonia.

A piece of heavy cloth cut from old trousers, or two or three thicknesses stitched together in the shape of the sole of the shoe, slipped into the rubber will keep the feet so cosy on cold days.

Scald a dish in which fish has been cooked, with hot water and vinegar after washing it in hot soap suds.

Pour a glass of warmed jelly over the mutton roast or chops just before serving.

Sliced oranges and French dressing, with cress or lettuce, makes a delicious salad to serve with game birds.

Rub the scorched place on woolen cloth with a piece of bread. It will remove it entirely.

The Emancipation Proclamation

WHEN Lincoln was quite a young man, he took a boatload of various products for a merchant of Springfield, Illinois, to New Orleans. While at New Orleans, he visited a slave market, and witnessed slaves auctioned off under the hammer. —wives and husbands parted, children separated from parents. He saw the anguish of heart under those dark skins, as loved ones were torn apart never to see each other again, and he was so moved by the spectacle, that it is said he raised his hand to heaven, and exclaimed, "If I ever get a chance to hit that thing, I'll hit it hard, by the Eternal God."

Some thirty years after, he did get a chance to hit it, and he hit it so hard that he knocked it clear out of existence in this land of ours.

Perhaps as he wrote his wonderful Emancipation Proclamation, this scene of his younger days was vividly before him.

It is now some fifty years since that Proclamation took effect. Some one suggested, though the suggestion was not carried out, I believe, that it would be interesting to have an exhibition showing the progress of the negro from the time he was freed to the present.

Would it not be interesting? And would it not bring about a better understanding and greater sympathy for the struggle upward of those who so long dwelt in utter darkness?

It has been but fifty years since the fetters were struck from them, since they were given the opportunity to live their individual lives, to think and do for themselves. They started on this road from the densest ignorance; and worse yet, from a state of helplessness similar to that of the child who has always been cared for. To be sure, their lives in many cases were hard, but they never had been compelled to think for themselves. And this results in a helplessness akin to that of muscles that have never been used. They had to gropingly find themselves in an entirely new world. And in many places, their journey forward was not amid the happiest and most helpful conditions.

So that remembering all these things, and remembering, too, that they have had but fifty years to prove themselves, an exhibition of the progress made would be interesting; and would no doubt lead to a better understanding of them, and a greater sympathy and desire to help them in their upward struggle.

And on the birthday of the one who so keenly felt their sufferings, and gave his life really in the effort to give them freedom and the opportunity to develop, what more fitting tribute of remembrance to offer, than some such movement to understand and appreciate and help these children.

TWO UNUSUAL DISHES.

The Genuine Chop Suey.

Through the courtesy of a manager of hotels and restaurants, I secured the following recipe. To make chop suey, Chinese goods are necessary, and he quoted the following names, with prices: Soy or Chinese sauce, 35c; bamboo shoots, can, 15c; Chinese mushrooms, per pound, 57c; water-mat, per pound, 15c.

Chinese mushrooms resemble our fresh mushrooms, but are dried and must be soaked in water until soft before using. Fresh mushrooms may be used instead. Water-mats resemble onions; they are sometimes called Chinese onions and may be dispensed with entirely. Bamboo shoots are put up in cans and look like raw potatoes peeled.

Chicken Chop Suey.

Material—Young chicken meat 1-2; fresh pork; celery, 2 stalks; bamboo shoots, 1-3 can; water-mat, 3; mushrooms, 8; chicken stock, 1-2 pt.

Utensils—Sharp, vegetable knife, 2 sauce pans, tablespoon, measuring cup.

Directions—Remove the meat from a young uncooked chicken and cut in strips. Add an equal amount of fresh, lean pork, cut likewise and saute both in any preferred fat. Some Chinese use a peculiar oil, but fats we are used to are preferable. At the same time saute in a separate pan the celery sliced in thin strips, sliced bamboo shoots, peeled and sliced water-mats, and the mushrooms sliced thin. When done drain all fat from both pans. Empty the contents of the two pans together, and the chicken stock, cover and allow to simmer slowly until the meat is tender, add salt and just before serving stir in the following mixture: 1 tsp. of New Orleans molasses, 1 t. soy and a pinch of cornstarch.

Serve with a bowl of hot rice, tea, wafers and a bottle of soy. Bread and butter are not served with chop suey. Pork always remains for other kinds of chop suey, but other meats may be substituted for the chicken.

Chili Con Carne.

The following dish I had the plea-

OYSTERS SHOULD BE CAREFULLY CLEANED.

The newspapers recently reported the death from typhoid of several persons at Elizabeth, N. J., who ate of the same meal. The cause of the disease was probably oysters. It should be understood that the oyster is a scavenger and that if the supply is taken from near the mouth of a sewer the consequences may be serious. I have traced a case of typhoid in Michigan to oysters eaten in Pennsylvania. The fact that an oyster is smaller than a chicken is not sufficient reason for neglecting to clean it in the same way that a chicken is cleaned. The flesh of the oyster is readily and fully assimilated, but there is no element of nutrition in it that is not contained in many other foods and it is not more easily assimilated or more nutritious than poached eggs.

TALKS WITH MOTHERS

By GERTRUDE STEVENS AYEES.

The Layette.

The layette for the coming child is too often the most important preparation in the mind of the expectant mother, while in reality her own health, happiness and training, as mentioned in previous talks, are of vastly more value to both mother and child. When time and strength are limited, the entire layette can be purchased at moderate cost if the woman is sensible enough to provide only "Necessities for the little one's comfort." The average mother, to satisfy her own vanity, often provides many things that are necessities and some that will probably add to the youngster's discomfort. The healthy new baby spends weeks eating and sleeping; and some things seldom furnished are to my mind absolute necessities for the comfort of the child who spends twenty hours of the twenty-four in just the position in which he is placed by nurse or mother. Some of these you will hear about under the subject of the nursery.

Clothing.

The following are necessities: 40 to 50 cotton flannels, 3 strips of flannel for bands, 3 (part wool) bands, size 1, 2 (part wool) shirts, size 2.

Materials—Round steak, 1-2 pound; Mexican chili beans or canned kidney beans, 12 ps.; water, 1 c.; flour, 1-3 c.; tomatoes, 1-2 can; chili powder, 1 tsp.; salt, 1 tsp.; peanut oil or oil or crisco, 2 t.; bay leaf, 1; onion, 1; sweet green pepper, 1-2.

Utensils—Large spider, food chopper, vegetable knife, measuring cup, tablespoon, teaspoon.

Directions—Cut the meat fine in the food chopper. Put the oil into the spider and when hot add the sliced onion. Cook until tender, but not brown. Remove seeds and veins from the pepper, slice fine and put into the spider. Now pour in the cup of boiling water and simmer gently about ten minutes. Add the flour smooth in a little cold water or milk, stirring carefully so as not to break the beans, and more water may be added if needed. If the dried Mexican chili beans are used soak over night and cook as other dried beans until tender.

All measurements level: C, cup; tsp, teaspoon; t, tablespoon.

CONFESSIONAL TOPIC OF LECTURE TONIGHT

THE REV. FATHER WELSH TO EXPLAIN DOCTRINE OFTEN MISUNDERSTOOD.

AUTHORITY OF CHURCH

Must Be Taken As to Interpretation of Scripture—Guarantees Teaching of Divine Tradition.

That the authority of the church and not individual interpretation is to be taken as a guide to the understanding of the Scriptures is the teaching of the Roman Catholic church, was the statement made by the Rev. Father A. O. Welsh in his lecture on "The Church and the Bible," delivered last night at the Myers theatre.

"The gospel," he said, "must be learned from a divine, infallible, living voice; the Catholic church, which guarantees to every one not merely the written word, but also the unwritten teaching of divine tradition." The speaker again drew an audience which filled the lower floor of the theatre and overflowed into the balcony. The question box has been well patronized and the replies made to the questions by the Rev. Welsh have been listened to with close attention and great interest. His address was in part:

"You learned last night that Christ's place in the world is quite alone. He spoke with the authority of God: 'He is the Way, the Truth, and the Life.' He is the door of the Kingdom, through which everyone must enter. With His coming into the world, our membership in His Kingdom is lifted out of the realm of choice and made a matter of necessity. There is no aspect of our lives that does not take its beauty from Him. There is no work we undertake, no effort we make, to do or think what is right, that does not feel the need of Christ's abiding presence as indispensable. His life and teachings were not for a small and select circle, nor for the generation in which He lived, nor for the Jewish people among whom He walked. He was as you have seen—the Way, the Truth and the Light. He was 'The Light that was to enlighten every man coming into the world.' It is with this conviction that He is indispensable to us personally; that His divine teaching is to us our bread and life. We must believe that Christ stands with an authority that is commanding and loving; that we live by every word that cometh from His mouth. This is faith in Christ and the important question is: How shall we find out just what Christ taught? Unless you believe you shall be damned. Believe what? Just as you please. No, my dear friends, believe just what Christ taught and commanded His church to teach: 'Go ye into the whole world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized, shall be saved, but he that believeth not shall be damned.' (Mark 16:15-16). Again, 'He that heareth you, heareth me; and he that despiseth you, despiseth me; and he that despiseth me, despiseth Him that sent me.' (Luke 10:16). 'And if he will not hear the church, let him be to thee as the heathen and publican.' (Matthew 18:17).

"The question for our consideration tonight is this: What means did Christ have behind Him, for us to find out all the necessary truths for our salvation? There are two answers: The first, that of non-Catholics following the reformers of the 16th century who declared that the bible only, understood according to an individual's private interpretation under the guidance of the Holy Spirit was the complete source and organ of revealed truth for man's salvation. They had denied the divine, infallible authority established by Jesus Christ, and so in words at least, endeavored to substitute an authority equally divine and unfallible. Catholics, on the contrary, hold with St. Paul, that faith cometh not by reading, but by hearing. (Romans 10:17). That the gospel of Christ is to be learned from a divine, infallible, living voice; the Catholic church, which guarantees to every one not merely the written word, but also the unwritten teaching of divine tradition. Therefore, brethren, stand fast and hold the traditions which ye have been taught, whether by word or epistle.' (II. Epistle of St. Paul to the Thessalonians, 13:14.)"

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

THE NIGHT CLERK

(By Howard L. Rann.)

The night clerk is an adjustable hotel fixture, who usually adjusts himself so as to call the 4:35 train at half past six.

Nobody has ever discovered why hotels employ night clerks, unless it is to annoy guests who wish to be called the same week the train leaves. A great many people have tried to perfect some invention which would keep a night clerk from going into a deep melancholy trace along about 3:00 a.m. and remaining therein until every train on the main line has reached the end of the division. The average night clerk can stand on one leg and go to sleep faster than an assistant to a hypnotist, and when in that condition he couldn't hear a fourteen-inch gun if it was planted on the hotel register.

Most night clerks have the habit of starting a long-distance nap about mid-night and waking up just in time to escape being murdered by some late guest who has missed a close connection. It is the duty of the night clerk to serve ice water and one lean spare-rib towel to guests on the third floor who are not dressed to come down and get them. Some night clerks are so hard of hearing that they can sit in an arm chair, within two feet of the bell, and never detect an alarm which sounds like the long roll of a snare drum.

Whenever a night clerk wakes up in time to arouse some patron who wishes to get out of town before daylight, he begins to call the 5:20 train as soon as he strikes the first landing using a high resonant voice that jars the sleep out of everybody on the floor and gives the guests the exact time of day. After performing this duty and returning to the desk, he is seized with remorse lest he should have overlooked somebody, and in order to avoid mistakes goes up again and pounds on the doors of people who take out board by the week. This has a very soothing effect upon patrons who didn't turn in until three o'clock.

The night clerk is one reason why traveling men carry a self-ringing alarm clock in their grips and hook it to the head of the bed before retiring.

by MARTNA BELLINGER

CHAPTER VI.

On board the Jeanne D'Arc. If hard usage and obstacles could cure a knight-errant of his sentiment, then Jimmy Hambleton had been free of his passion for the Face. His plunge overboard had been followed by a joyous swim, a lusty call to the yacht for "Help," and a growing amazement when he realized that it was the yacht's intention to pass him by. He had swum valiantly, determined to get picked up by that particular craft, when suddenly his strength failed. He remembered thinking that it was all up with him, and then he lost consciousness.

When he awoke he was on a hard bunk in a dim place, and a sailor was jerking him about. His throat burned with a fiery liquid. Then he felt the plunging and rising of the boat, and came to life sufficiently to utter the stereotyped words, "Where am I?"

In Jim's case the question did not imply the confused groping back to sense that it usually indicates, but rather an actual desire to know whether or not he was on board the Jeanne D'Arc. Plainly his wits had not been badly shattered by his experience overboard. But the sailor who was attending him with such ministrations as he understood, answered him with a sample of French which Jim had never met with in his school-books, and he was not enlightened for some hours.

It was indeed the Jeanne D'Arc, as Jim proved for himself the next day, and he was lying in the seamen's quarters in the fo'c's'le. By morning he felt much better, hungry, and prepared in his mind for striking a bargain with one of the sailors for clothes. He could make out their lingo soon, he guessed, and then he would get a suit of clothes and fare on deck. Suddenly he grasped his waist, struck with an unpleasant thought; his money-belt was gone! He was wearing a sailor's blue flannel shirt and nothing else. He turned over on his hard bunk, thinking that he would have to wait a while before making his entrance on the public stage of the Jeanne D'Arc.

And wait he did. Not a rag of clothing was in sight, not a cajolement or promise of reward could persuade the ship's men into supplying his need. He received consignments of food; short rations they would be, he judged, for an able-bodied seaman. But inactivity and confinement to the fo'c's'le soon worked havoc with his physique, so that appetite, and even desire of life itself, temporarily disappeared in the gloom of seasickness.

In spite of difficulties, Jim tried to find out something about the boat. The seamen were none too friendly; but by patching up his almost forgotten French and by signs, he learned something. His sudden failure of strength in the water had been due to a blow from a floating spar, as a bruise on his forehead testified; "the old man," whom Jim supposed to be the captain, was a hard master; Monsieur Chateaufort was owner, or at least temporary proprietor, of the yacht; and the present voyage was an unlucky one by all the signs and omens known to the seamen's horoscope.

The sullenness of the men was apparent, and was not caused by the enforced presence of a stranger among them. In fact, their bad temper became so conspicuous that Jim began to believe that it might have something to do with the mysterious actions of the man on shore. He pondered the situation deeply; he evolved many foolish schemes to compass his own enlightenment, and dismissed them one by one. He grimly reflected that a man without clothes can scarcely be a hero, whatever his spirit. Not since the days of Olympus was there any record of man or god being received into any society whatever without his sartorial shell, thought Jimmy. But in spite of his discomfort, he was glad he was there. The intuition that had led him since that memorable Sunday afternoon was strong within him still, and he never questioned its authority. He believed his turn would come, even though he were a prisoner in the fo'c's'le of the Jeanne D'Arc.

As the violence of his sickness passed, Jim began to cast about for some means of helping himself. Gradually he was able to dive into the forgotten shallows of his French learning. By much wrinking of brows he evolved a sentence, though he had to wait some hours before there was a favorable chance to put it to use. At last his time came, with the arrival of his former friend, the sailor.

"Oo avay-vo cashay mon money-belt?" he inquired with much confidence, and with pure Yankee accent.

The sailor answered with a shrug, and a spreading of empty hands.

"Pas de money-belt, pas de pantalons, pas de tous! Dam queer Amayricain!"

Jim was not convinced of the sailor's innocence, but perceived that he must give him the benefit of the doubt. As the sailor intimated, Jim, himself, was open to suspicion, and couldn't afford to be too zealous in calumniating others. He fell to thinking again, and attacked the next Frenchman that came into the fo'c's'le with the following:

"Kond j'aytay malade don ma tate, kee a pree mon money-belt?"

It was the ship's cook this time, and he turned and stared at Jimmy as though he had seen a ghost. When he found tongue he uttered a volume of opinion and abuse which Jimmy knew by instinct was not fit to be translated, and then he fled up the ladder.

On the fourth day, toward evening, James had a visitor. All day the yacht had been pitching and rolling, and by afternoon she was laboring in the violence of a storm and was listing badly. James was a fearless seaman, but it crossed his mind more than once that if he were captain, and if there were a port within reach, he would put into it before midnight. But he could tell nothing of the ship's course. He turned the subject over in his mind as he lay on his bunk in that peculiar state halfway between sickness and health, when the body is relaxed by a purely accidental illness and the mind is abnormally alert. He wished intensely for a bath, a shave, and a fair complement of clothes. He longed also to go up the hatchway for a breath of air, and was considering the possibility of doing this later, with a blanket and darkness for a shield, when he became conscious of a pair of neatly trousered legs descending the ladder. It was quite a different performance from the catlike climbing up and down of the sailors.

Jimmy watched in the dim light until the whole figure was complete, fantastically supplying, in his imagination, the coat, the shirt, the collar and the tie to go with the trousers—all the things which he himself lacked. Was there also a hat? Jimmy couldn't make out, and so he asked:

"Have you got on a hat?"

A frigid voice answered, "I beg your pardon!"

"I said, are you wearing a hat? I couldn't see, you know."

"Monsieur takes the liberty of being impertinent."

"Oh, excuse me—I beg your pardon. But it's so beastly hot and dark in here, you know, and I've never been seasick before."

"No? Monsieur is fortunate." The visitor advanced a little, drew from a recess a shoe-blackening outfit, pulled over it one of the stiff blankets from a neighboring bunk, and sat down rather cautiously. Little by little James made out more of the look of the man. He was large and rather blond, well-dressed, clean-shaven. He spoke English easily, but with a foreign accent.

"I wish to inquire to what unfortunate circumstances we are indebted for your company on the Jeanne D'Arc." The voice was cool and sharp as a meat-ax.

"Why, to your own kind-heartedness. I was a derelict and you took me in—saved my life. In fact, for which I am profoundly grateful. And I hope my presence here is not too great a burden?"

"I am obliged to say that your presence here is most unwelcome. Moreover, I am aware that your previous actions are open to suspicion, to express it mildly. You threw yourself off the tug; and as this is not a pleasure yacht, but the vessel of a high official speeding on a most important business matter, I said to the captain, 'Let him swim! Or, if he wishes to die, why should we thwart him?' But the captain referred to the 'etiquette of the line,' as he calls it, and picked you up. So you have not me to thank for not being among the fishes this minute."

Jimmy pulled his blanket about and sat up on his bunk. The sarcastic voice stirred his bile, and suddenly there boomed in his memory a woman's call for help. The hooded motor-car, the muffled cry of terror, the inert figure being lifted over the side of the yacht—these things crowded on his brain and fired him to a sudden, unreasoning fury. He leaned over, looking sharply into the other's face.

"You damned scoundrel!" he said, choking with his anger. The blood surged into his face and eyes; he was, for an instant, a primitive savage. He could have laid violent hands on the other man and done him to death, in the fashion of the half-gods who lived in the twilight of history.

The visitor in the fo'c's'le exhibited a neat row of teeth and no resentment whatever at Jim's remark. But a sharp glitter shot from his eyes as he replied suavely:

"Monsieur has doubtless mistaken this ship, and probably its master also, for some other less worthy adventurer on the sea. For that very reason I have come to set you right. It may be that I have my quixotic moments. At any rate, I have a fancy to give you a gentleman's chance. Monsieur, I regret the necessity of being inhospitable, but I am forced to say that you must quit the shelter of this yacht within twenty-four hours."

The thin, sarcastic voice and clean-cut syllables fanned the flame of Jimmy's rage. He felt impotent, moreover, which never serves as a poultice to anger. But he got himself in hand, though imitation courtesy was not much in his line. He tuned his big hearty voice to a pitch with the Frenchman's nasal pipe, and clipped off his words in mimicry.

"And to whom, pray, shall I have the honor to say farewell, at the auspicious moment when I jump overboard?"

"Gently, you American, gently!" said the other. "My friends, and some of my enemies, know me as Monsieur Chateaufort." As he paused for an impressive instant, Jim, grabbing his blanket, stood up in derision and executed an elaborate bow in as foreign a manner as he could command. Monsieur Chateaufort politely waved him down and continued:

"But pray do not trouble to give me your card! I had rather say adieu to Monsieur the Unknown, whose daring and temper I so much admire. But I certainly misunderstood your violent remark a moment ago, did I not? You can not possibly have any ground of quarrel with me."

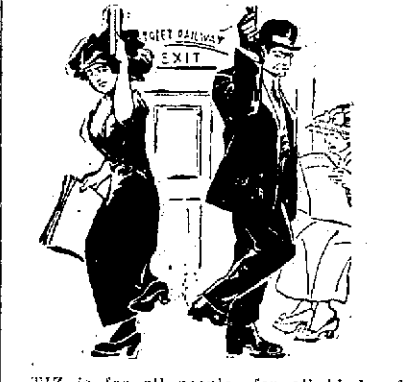

"I thought you stole my money-belt."

Monsieur smiled and waved a deprecatory hand. "You have already dismissed that idea, I am certain. A money-belt, between gentlemen! Moreover, you should thank me for so much as recognizing the gentleman in you, since you are without the customary trappings of our class."

"Oh, I don't know," said Jim. But Monsieur Chateaufort was now imperturbable. He continued blandly:

"Since you are fond of sea-baths, you will no doubt enjoy a plunge—no doubt possibly. As we have made rather slow progress, we are really not so far from shore. Yes, on second thought, I would by all means advise you to take your departure tonight. Swim back to shore the way you came. In any case, your absence is desired."

There will be no room or provision or water for you on board the Jeanne D'Arc after tonight. Is my meaning clear?"

Jim was watching, as well as he could, the immobile, expressionless face, and did not immediately note that Monsieur Chateaufort had drawn a small, shiny object from his hip pocket and was holding it carelessly in his lap. As his gaze focussed on the revolver, however, he did the one thing, perhaps, which at that moment could have put the Frenchman off his guard. He threw his head back and laughed aloud.

But before his laugh had time to echo in the narrow fo'c's'le, Jim leaped from his bunk upon his tormentor, like a cat upon a mouse, seized his right hand in a paralyzing grip, and was himself thrown violently to the floor. The struggle was brief, for the Frenchman was no match for Jim in strength and scarcely superior to him in skill; but it took one of Jim's wrestling feints to get the better of his opponent. He came out, in five seconds, with the pistol in his hand. Monsieur Chateaufort, a bit breathless, but not greatly discomfited, peered out at him from the edge of the opposite bunk, where he sat uncomfortably. His cynical voice capped the struggle like a streak of pitch.

The Reason Why So Many People Take Father John's Medicine

When Mrs. C. H. Dunkel, of 33 Linden street, Reading, Pa., was asked why she took Father John's Medicine for her cough, she replied, "it was recommended by my doctor." The same question was asked and a similar answer returned by the following:—Mrs. A. E. Hixon, 36 Larkin street, Bangor, Me.; Henry F. Villet, 25 Crown street, Meriden, Conn.; Frank Poff, Hallam, Pa.; Miss Catherine Boyle, 45 Blackburn street, Fairhaven, Mass.; Charles L. Brown, Irving, Ill., as well as a great many others.

Physicians, hospitals and other institutions all over the world endorse the merits of Father John's Medicine because they know of its history and curative power.

It cures colds, coughs and throat and lung troubles in the natural way by driving the impurities out of the body and at the same time its pure food elements make flesh and strength for those who are weak and run down. Not a patent medicine but a doctor's prescription, free from alcohol and poisonous drugs in any form. Get a bottle today.

If you have an difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams BY WALT MASON

Though cheerful the world and pleasant, and azure the skies o'er all, he cannot enjoy the present for dreading what may befall. He's tortured by dire forebodings of what may occur next week; new wrinkles in griefs and goadings he goes to much pains to seek. It's useless to say, "Be careful, exert in this gorgeous day!" His face will always be fearful, because he is built that way. I see many wayward cripples around in the haunts of men; and over each face there ripples a smile every now and then. A man may be shy a shoulder or minus a collarbone, and find that his lot's no colder than that of the friends he's known; a man may be forced to scamper along on a basswood limb, nor let it, a moment hamper the joy that abides in him. I know an old man who's twisted and bent, but he doesn't scream—and always he has insisted that life is a bully scheme. Alas! if your twist is mental, the world will be cold and gray; you'll need much assistance, denial or you'll gnash all your teeth away.

Not Customary. "Etchen has been given the illustration of the latest Winston Wheeler story." "Gee, that's fine!" "But he isn't at all sure he'll take the job." "Why not?" "He says it will oblige him to read the story."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
